E-Legislative Update

February 8, 2010

We are in the fifth week of the legislative session. With the exception of the House Finance Committee, which has a longer timeline than other House policy committees, activity in the House of Representatives was furious as committees rushed to vote bills out of various committees to move forward in the legislative process. For some bills that do not have a cost associated with their passage, they move on to the House Rules Committee. This Committee determines which bills will move to the House floor, where all members of the House can vote on the bill. For bills that do have a cost, or fiscal impact, they are referred to the House Ways and Means Committee whose purpose is to evaluate estimated costs of the bill. The Senate continued to hold policy committee hearings through Thursday. A parallel process of bills either being referred to Senate Rules or Senate Ways and Means is the next step. For those bills with fiscal impact, the last day to be heard in a fiscal committee is Tuesday, February 9th. The House Ways and Means Committee heard bills all day Saturday, February 6th in anticipation of Tuesday's deadline.

The Commission on Asian Pacific American Affairs legislative priorities focus on state budget development and bills that impact the Asian Pacific American community in the areas of education, health care, human services, economic development, and immigration.

The legislature discussed the following bills and issues of interest to the Asian Pacific American community last week.

Week Four Highlights:

On Thursday, February 4, 2010, over two thousand members of all ages from the API community visited the capitol and met with their legislators on Asian Pacific American Legislative Day. They voiced concern over a variety of issues including preserving health and human services, job creation, and education. Leaders of the API community met and spoke with Governor Gregoire, Speaker of the House Frank Chopp, State Representatives Sharon Tomiko Santos, Bob Hasegawa, Lynn Kessler and Senators Paull Shin, Chris Marr, and Steve Hobbs.

Governor Gregoire held a press conference with Congressman Jay Inslee regarding federal stimulus funds available to Washington. The Governor announced optimism that the state will receive more federal funds to support the Medicaid program. Rep. Inslee emphasized the growing unemployment rate: 1 in 8 people in Washington filed an unemployment compensation claim this year.

Senate Ways and Means heard SB 6843 preserving essential public services by temporarily suspending the two-thirds vote requirement for tax increases and permanently modifying provisions of Initiative Measure No. 960 for improved efficiency and consistency with state budgeting. This bill would suspend requirements under Initiative 960 for the next two legislative sessions. Currently, I-960 requires a two thirds majority vote to pass any legislation that would raise taxes. This has been a barrier against the legislature passing tax bills. This session, various advocacy and public groups are pushing the legislature to consider and pass bills to generate the revenue needed to preserve essential programs, particularly in the areas of health and education.

Highlights of legislative discussion in EDUCATION:

A King County Superior Court ruled that the state was not meeting its obligation to fully fund education. This will influence ongoing legislative conversations about K-12 funding. The following bills have been heard and are moving forward in the legislative process:

- Senate Committee on Early Learning & K-12 Education heard SB 6511 regarding gang and hate group activity at schools and school activities and SB 6512 increasing school safety, SB 6553 regarding mathematics and science high school graduation requirements, and SB 6740 concerning a comprehensive K-12 education policy.
- House Committee on Education Appropriations heard HB 3026 regarding school district compliance with state and federal civil rights laws.

Highlights of legislative discussions in the areas of HEALTH CARE and HUMAN SERVICES:

- House Committee on Health & Human Services Appropriations voted HB 2197 out of committee to move the bill forward in the legislative process. The bill eliminates the Department of Social and Health Services and creates new departments to take over its functions.
- The House of Representative passed House Joint Resolution 4220 amending the state Constitution so that the provision relating to bailable crimes by sufficient sureties is modified. The debate on this bill was full of emotion as Representatives argued the Washington Constitution's restriction upon a judge's inability to withhold bail. Many argued that this may have prevented the shooting deaths of four officers in the Lakewood area by Maurice Clemmons. The bill will move onto the Senate for consideration.

Highlights of legislative discussion on ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT include:

- House Committee on General Government and Appropriations heard HB 2641 expanding small business development centers.
- House Finance Committee heard HB 3157, agency requested legislation by the Department of Revenue, which extends the business and occupation tax to certain out of state businesses. According to Ross Hunter, Chair of the House Finance and sponsor of the bill, "By extending the B&O tax to certain out-of-state businesses, this levels the playing field for Washington-based companies to compete for business in Washington, and eliminates the incentive for companies to move jobs out of Washington. Some Washington-based businesses will see a decrease in taxes while out-of-state business will be taxed for business they conduct in Washington.” The legislation raises $73 million in revenue for the remainder of the 2010-11 fiscal year, and $374.6 million in the next biennium, 2011-13.

The focus this week will be on the two major fiscal committees: House and Senate Ways and Means. They will continue to hear public testimony on the cost of certain bills, decide whether to vote on bills to move forward in the legislative process. The House of Representatives and Senate will also be holding sessions on the floor to debate bills for passage in either chamber. Some policy committees will meet to hold work sessions examining specific policy issues without hearing individual bills.
